

Shocking News: Fetus Soup Being Served in China!

Baby Eating in China

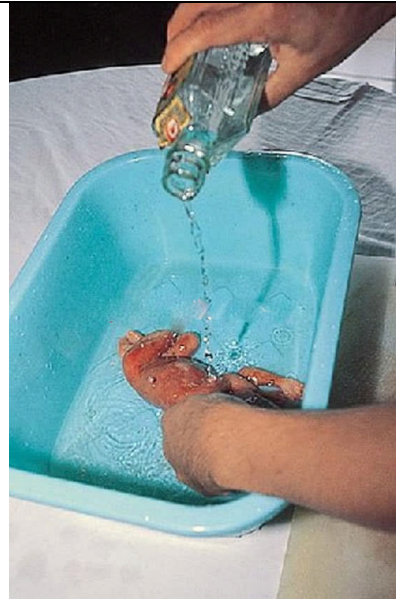

Very disturbing pictures are now spreading across the internet about a certain delicacy which could be found in China. A town in Canton is now on trend making baby herbal soup to increase health and sexual performance/stamina. The cost of the fetus soup in China currency is approximately $40.00US.

A factory manager was interviewed and he testified that it is effective because he had tried it and is a frequent customer. It is a delicacy whereby expensive herbs are added to boil the baby with chicken meat for 8 hours boiling/steaming. He was interviewed with his second and very young wife, who is only 29 while he is now 62. He testifies the potency of the fetus soup and he was able to make love with his wife everyday.

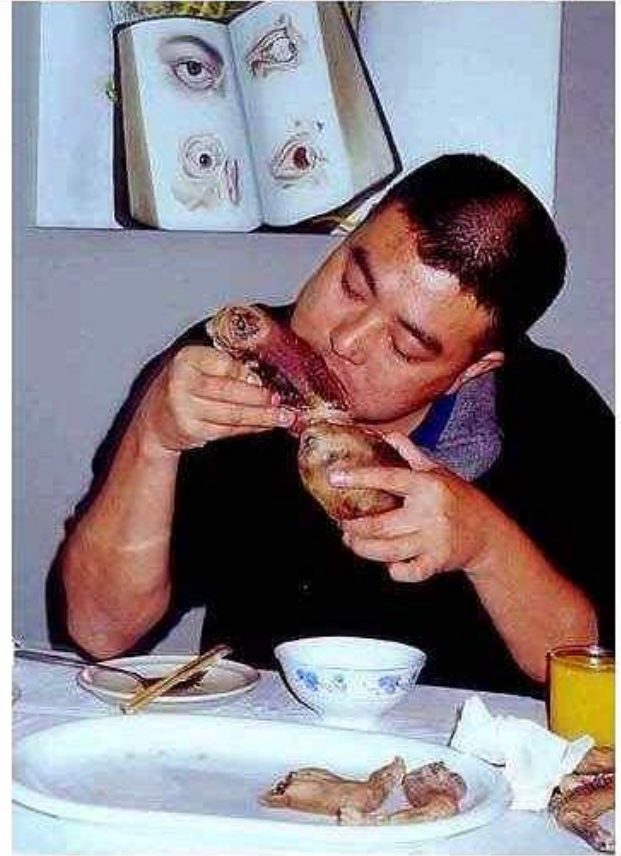

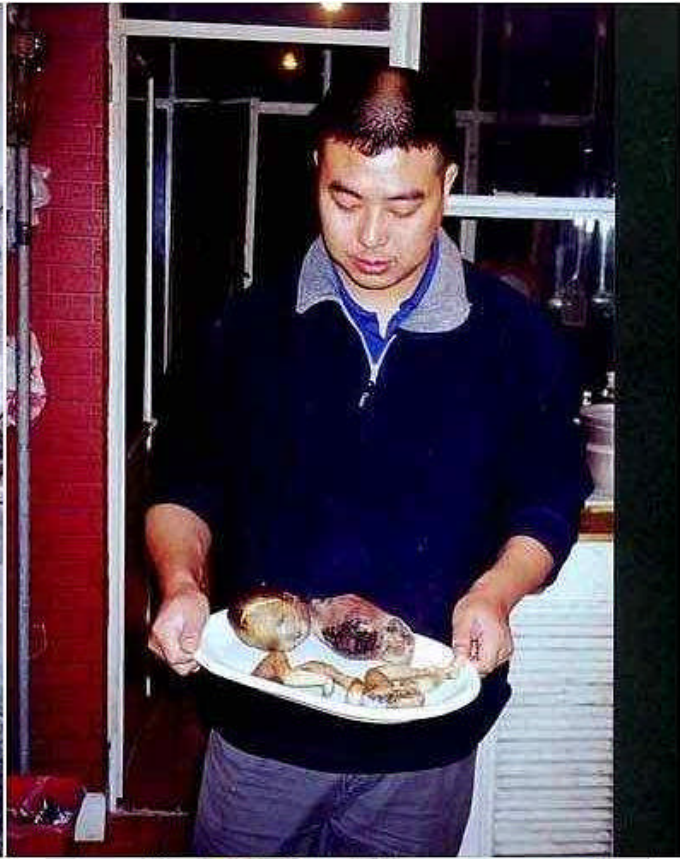

"Spare rib soup" local code for fetus soup is being served to local restaurants in Canton. Couples who would like to abort their babies, could just go to these local restaurants and sell the aborted baby. These local restaurants also accept placentas for several hundreds if couples do not want to sell their babies.

It is very disturbing to mention that most fetuses served in these local restaurants are female babies. This is due to the fact that majority of Chinese prefers to have male babies and those poorer families usually end up selling their female babies.

What would make people do such a thing without any fear of condemnation? A complete lack of morality and respect for human life has become the norm in China, inhuman behavior and human rights violations resulting in abnormal practices such as cannibalism.

You can find more information on Baby Eating in China and Fetal Soup Served in Chinese Restaurants on the internet.